

Assistive Technology

Assistive Technology can help you be more independent and live the life you want to live.

Assistive Technology is equipment, devices or systems used to help you live a more independent life. This could include items such as tablets, switches, electronic reminders, specialized utensils, and electronic devices that can do things like turning on or off an appliance.

You can get assistive technology support if you are using any of the following programs:

- Individual and Family Services waiver.
- Children’s Intensive In-Home Behavior Supports waiver.
- Community First Choice.
- Pre-Admission Screening and Resident Review.
- Roads to Community Living.

Ask your case manager for more information about assistive technology.

If you do not have a case manager, contact us to see how we can help.
